BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

All the members were present at last Wednesday evening's meeting. A number of small demands on the treasury having been approved by the finance committee, were ordered paid. E. R. Tarling made an application for appointment as Building Inspector, same was referred to Committee on Public Works. A petition was received from A. W. Randolph and 43 others asking that L street be extended from the northerly line of Randolph tract, to Maple street. The city engineer and city attorney were instructed to prepare the necessary resolutions of intention. The city engineer reported that map of the Randolph tract had been amended to meet certain requirements and same was approved. Deed for Mary street north of First street was presented but referred back for correction.

Report of committee of the whole, to whom had been referred the petition of Edgar Leavitt in reference to municipal water plant, etc., and the petition of C. E. Stanley in regard to numbering public streets, was then presented.

The committee gave its approval to the proposition to number the streets and also to the re-naming of some of them: It recommended that all streets now known by the letters of the alphabet at one end, and by proper names at the other, be changed to names having greater significance to enable a better identification and so have the same name for the whole length of the street. It further recommended, that as the corner of "A" and Fourth street is near the geographical center of the city this should be considered as the center for numbering purposes and that numbers should run in each direction therefrom. The committee further recommends that a committee of five citizens be appointed to work in conjunction with the Board of Trustees, for the purpose of doing this work.

In regard to the municipal water and lighting plant, etc., the committee while favoring the proposition in a general way, makes no specific recommendation.

In regard to storm water, the committee is of the opinion that the opening of a street along the Childs tract line, would make practicable a satisfactory solution of the problem and expresses the hope that steps will be taken to bring this about.

The report was adopted and on motion—the following named committee of five was appointed to act upon the recommendation made by the committee: Ezra Parker, Richard Hernberg, Edgar Leavitt, Charles E. Stanley, J. C. Sherer.

Thustee Jennings reported that the dog catcher of Los Angeles is willing to act in that capacity for this city. Further time given Mr. Jennings to catch the dog catcher.

Deputy License Collector returned licenses 155 and 156 with report that payment of same had been refused. City attorney was instructed to take necessary action in the matter.

In regard to the building ordinance it was decided that the requirements of the same are in effect but that no fees can be collected until an inspector is appointed.

The matter of a Carnegie library was then discussed at some length. The principal feature developed was the fact that it is necessary for the city of Glendale to contribute annually for the support of the library, one-tenth of the sum given by Mr. Carnegie. For instance, if Mr. Carnegie gives the sum of $10,000, it will be necessary for the city to raise annually by taxation in the regular way, the sum of $1,000.

The trustees are particularly desirous that citizens and tax payers generally, should express themselves in any way practicable, as to their opinion in regard to the matter. Send a postal, and write a letter, call them up by telephone, interview the trustees in person; in brief, express yourself on the subject in any proper way, as the trustees are desirous of acting in accordance with the wishes of our people in this matter.

GOOD ROADS CONVENTION.

Messrs. Eshelman and Richardson of Tropico, attended the Good Roads Convention in Los Angeles last Saturday and are much pleased with the progress reported at the convention which elected Mr. S. A. Butler, chairman, Mr. F. C. Blanchard, secretary and Mr. A. P. Griffith of Azusa, treasurer. Assistant District Attorney Shaw and Mr. Blanchard who had been sent to Sacramento to secure the passage of an act permitting the county to vote bonds for road purposes, reported having had perfect success in that direction. The bill is now in the hands of the governor and will no doubt be approved by him.

The appointment of an executive committee of seven was left to the chairman and in the hands of this committee will be left the details of the work. All municipalities are entitled to a representative in the Good Roads Association and Glendale should have a representative in this body.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

Regular meeting of the Board of Trade this (Saturday) evening, at City Hall at 8 o'clock.

Full attendance is requested.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Last Monday in the Senate, Senator Bell made good his promise to call the anti-race track gambling bill out of the hands of the Committee on Public Morals, where it was intended by the majority that it should "sleep the sleep that knows no waking." But it got woke up. The senator from Pasadena did the thing which has always been in the power of the minority to do, he forced the senators to go on record, by insisting upon and compelling a roll call. Not everyone will understand how much courage it takes to do this thing. There are forty members of the California Senate, they are (legislation aside) in the main, pretty good fellows. Men who stand well in their home communities; some of them church members, others occupying at home minor positions of trust which indicate their standing to be good among their neighbors; well to do, ordinary honest sort of men, but so wedded to hoary precedent and so averse to running against the usual course of affairs that they don't amount to a hill of beans when it comes to the point of standing for something in the way of reform. It is not a pleasant thing for one of their number to take a position entagonistic to the men whom he associates with day after day in closest intercourse.

And this is what "Charlie" Bell has done, and done well. It is what members of the well meaning minority should do in both houses in every session of the legislature. It should not be possible, as it is not necessary, that any good reform measure should be hopelessly buried in a committee, because under the rules of parliamentary procedure, it is always the right of a member (after ten days) to get a vote on a resolution calling the bill out of the custody of a committee. Here are the names of the senators voting with Bell: Belshaw, Black, Boynton, Caminitti, Mattos, McKee, Miller, Rambo, Savage and Walker. Seven senators were absent; some of them dodging in the ante-rooms to avoid being placed on record. It is a good deal to have accomplished, and it means that when another legislature meets, that Senator Leavitt will find that there will be an increased number of members who will not do his bidding to take care of his Emeryville race track. Senator Bell has accomplished much. The bill for the removal of the state capital has actually passed both houses and has been signed by the governor. This will put the subject up to the people to be voted on two years hence. Meanwhile $300,000 or so is being expended on the capital building, in repairs and in giving it modern conveniences, which when completed should make it one of the finest public buildings in the country. The governor has signed the bill authorizing the sale of the Los Angeles Normal School property for not less than $500,000. This authorizes the Board of Trustees to advertise the property for sale at public auction. They are not allowed to spend more than $50,000 for a new site, and the new buildings must not cost more than the sum received for the sale of the property.

Gov. Gillette has vetoed the iniquitous three dollar a day bill, a piece of legislation which was not in the interest of the workingman, or of any other class of honest citizens. Municipalities still retain the privilege, therefore, of paying for labor, the market price.

The "Texas Car Bill," which has for its object the prevention of a car shortage such as has existed for some months past, greatly to the embarrassment of shippers and at the expense of the general public, was defeated in the assembly the other day by a very serious margin in favor of the railroads. Case, Cogswell and Thompson voted for the bill and against the railroad. The Senate has passed Savage's bill making libel a felony and making it possible to send an editor to jail for publishing the same. Savage is gunning for Gen. H. G. Otis, and in supporting the measure indulged in epithets which indicated that the Times has incurred his displeasure. But why Gen. Otis or anyone else should libel Mr. Savage, we cannot understand.

Last Monday Hollywood voted $100,000 for street improvements. The vote was 273 for and 15 against. And yet people wonder why Hollywood is ahead of Glendale!

"Nodding Homer"

In an editorial in last Sunday's Times, entitled "Footprints in the Sand," we find these introductory sentences: "It was a case of Homer nodding, when Longfellow in his 'Excelsior' sang of footprints in the sands of time. Making footprints in sand is a waste of human endeavor."

The Times writer nods when he ascribes to "Excelsior" Longfellow's reference to "footprints in the sands of time," as that line is found in "The Psalm of Life."

But that is only an introductory nod. Speaking of the career of the two great Americans, Washington and Lincoln, the latter is introduced thus: "It is but little more than half a century since the dagger of a fanatic let out the life blood of another great American." Nods number two and three! It is only forty-two years since Lincoln was killed, and history records the fact that he fell a victim to an assassin's bullet!

Next!

Now that the question of a city hall is out of the way for the present, let us take up the matters which are needed to give Glendale a standing among the most progressive of our Southern California cities. The city trustees have established fire limits and will appoint a building inspector. This means that buildings erected hereafter must be in accordance with the specifications of the ordinance. It is unfortunate that this ordinance did not become effective months ago; but it did not, and we shall have to act accordingly. From this time onward let us endeavor to encourage the erection of buildings that will be an indication of the prosperity and progressiveness that we would have the visitor believe to exist. If a donation of lots or a subsidy of money is necessary to start this movement, then by all means give the lots or the money, or both. If anything in the way of a co-operative building association seems the most practicable, then let us all be prepared to take stock in it and push it to a successful issue.

The street work is now fairly commenced, and nothing that we can do will be as effective in creating a good impression upon the visitor as fine streets and sidewalks. We shall undoubtedly have these, but it is work that needs to be pushed forward as rapidly as possible and we hope to see the "Resolutions of Intention" come along very rapidly from this time forward. The making of good streets will add to the value of property aligning them, and with the increased value will come an increase of sales and of home building; while the quality of the homes erected on improved streets will be in keeping with the street work.

We do not believe that large projects should be attempted by our municipality at once. Municipal water, gas and light are problems to be worked out later, but not at this period of our being. The city trustees have taken steps to get lights at our principal street corners, and it is hoped that no great delay will result in securing them. A portion of our people think that the best thing to do is to advertise Glendale. We certainly have no arguments to urge against well placed advertising, and we court all the publicity we can get; but it is equally as essential that we should have something attractive to show the people whom we lure into our vicinity by the use of printer's ink.

The Law and the Laborer

At Deadwood, Dakota, two or three weeks ago, a mob of men paraded the streets on Sunday, crying out against capital and the law; and all because the law by due and just process is endeavoring to ascertain whether Moyer, Heywood and Pettibone are red-handed wholesale murderers or not.

Last Sunday in San Francisco, the same element, led on by the same professional leaders of misguided laborers, paraded the streets of that city, hooted and hissed the stars and stripes, sang the "Marseilles" and applauded the rantings of fanatical orators whose aim it is to array class against class. But it is very evident that these demonstrations have a specific object, and that is to intimidate judge and jurors so that they shall be afraid to find a verdict of guilty against the imprisoned leaders of the Western Federation of Miners.

One speaker in San Francisco told his hearers that "the time to have any respect for law is over." Other speakers uttered sentiments just as vile.

We are told that eighty-four union labor organizations were represented at the meeting. It is only fair to assume that union labor is responsible for the meeting and the utterances of its speakers. If union labor is a synonym for anarchy in San Francisco and elsewhere throughout the West, it is time that the ban should be put upon union labor by all patriots who love the flag. If union labor does not stand for this expressed contempt of law, its members everywhere should hasten to put themselves on record as repudiating it. If union labor is not backing up this systematic attempt to prevent Moyer, Heywood and Pettibone from being tried before a jury of twelve men, just as other accused men are tried, it is time that union labor was repudiating, as it has not yet, the acts of its leaders throughout the West. Scores of murders have been committed throughout the West under circumstances that indicate most clearly, aside from all confessions, that the Western Federation of Miners is responsible for them. Mining camps in Nevada to-day are controlled by their organization, their domination maintained by daily acts of intimidation and crime. That the sympathy of any fair-minded, decent American citizen should be given to them rather than to society at large, is one of the discouraging evidences of the unreliability of human nature.

A HOME BUILDER.

Mr. C. M. Walton came to Glendale three years ago from Hawaii, where he had been engaged in the sugar business. He wanted a home and found in Glendale the place that seemed to promise everything desirable in that direction. But, being naturally energetic, he had no idea of spending his time in idleness, although he had behind him no urgent pressure of necessity, and might have settled down in a position of comfortable nothingness, had he desired to do so. He had an idea that he should like to go into the poultry business on quite an extensive scale, and selected a piece of land on Central avenue near Casa Verdugo, which has soil particularly well adapted to that business, having in it a large proportion of sand and gravel, with perfect drainage. Here he built a home, a large two-story house with a spacious lawn in front, having all the modern conveniences inside and out. Having some time and money on hand and some vacant lots, Mr. Walton built another house, thinking to sell it to some one who might be seeking a ready made home. The building of it gave him so much satisfaction that he immediately had plans drawn up and went to work on another, still planning to sell them when finished. Thus he went on until he had three or four houses on the market for sale, but buyers did not chance to be the class of people who wanted immediately, Mr. Walton's houses.

On the contrary, people wanted to rent them pending their sale, and so the houses were occupied by an excellent class of tenants, capable of appreciating a good house and pleasant surroundings. Mr. Walton kept on building houses and improving the streets in front of them, and the tenants kept on coming in until the builder concluded that he didn't want to sell the houses anyway. So this, in brief, is the story of his home building enterprise. Mr. Walton has ten houses on Central avenue and six down in Glendale; they have cost from $1800 to $2000 apiece, are all modern in their style and up-to-date in the conveniences that make a home worth while. There is only one pair of duplicates in style among them, and when Mr. Walton starts a new house (and he keeps on starting them) you may depend on its having the latest improvements and know that it will differ from its predecessors in its architecture. There is a family in every house except two, and the tenants are of the class that are helpful to a community. Mr. Walton continues to build, but he has only two lots left and doesn't want to encroach on the five acres that is occupied by his henneries, brooding houses, etc. And here begins another story. Mr. Walton has the largest and most complete poultry establishment that we know of in this section. He has 2100 laying hens of the white leghorn variety; and when the reporter called the other day he had just brought in nine hundred eggs, the day's output. The hens are confined in spacious yards with houses that have all imaginable conveniences both for the hens and their attendants. They are so arranged that all work can be done from the alleys, back of every house. Fresh water can be supplied by merely turning on a cock in the pipe at the head of the alley. The houses are kept scrupulously clean; there being all necessary conveniences for making all parts of the work easy. Here is a large brooder house that accommodates 2000 chicks which are kept in there until six or eight weeks old. The temperature is regulated by pipes which carry heat from a furnace standing in a basement at the end of the house. There are 1000 chicks in the brooder at present, and we did not see one that was not enjoying life thoroughly; not a drooping wing among them. The temperature is kept at from 70 to 85 degrees. The drinking arrangement here is unique and perfect for its purpose; an inch pipe runs through the rear of the brooder pens, with an opening in every pen. In this opening a cup shaped device is fitted, and just enough water is turned on to make it raise up in the cup. The pipe is nearly a foot from the floor and an approach is built up to it for the chicks to walk up on and drink. Their instinct leads them to the water when three or four days old. In the incubators of which Mr. Walton has several there are now 4000 eggs. He uses different kinds and speaks well of the work performed by the Glendale Incubator which he now has in use. Mr. Walton does not produce eggs to sell for hatching purposes, but bends his energies toward supplying the growing demand for "fresh ranch eggs."

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Glendale the following Board of Directors was elected: L. C. Brand, Dan Campbell, W. H. Holliday, D. Griswold, E. V. Williams.

L. C. Brand was elected President; Dan Campbell, Vice President, E. V. Williams, Cashier.

A party of young people enjoyed a pleasant evening at the home of Mr and Mrs. H. M. Overton on the Verdugo road on last Saturday eve. Those present were: Misses Russell, Story, Ada and Ora McFadden, Messrs. Wilbur McFadden, Earl Kendrick and Howard Lennox. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. and J. S. Overton.

Mrs. Jesse Stine had a rag sewing bee at her residence on Fourth street on Thursday. The time was pleasantly and profitably spent in sewing carpet rags, and in the middle of the day a fine dinner was served to the busy workers who were: Mrs. Philip Bullis, Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Harry Stock, Mrs. L. A. Jones and Mrs. Francis.

The W. C. T. U. Society held their regular meeting last Friday at the home of Mrs. Sexton where they decided to meet hereafter until the weather gets warmer. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Hattie Gaylord, President; Mrs. D. F. Hendershott, Vice President at large; Mrs. E. M. Sexton, Recording Secretary; Mrs. M. E. Harn, Cor. Secretary; Mrs. A. M. Ayers, Treasurer; Mrs. W. E. Tarr, Superintendent of flower mission.

Miss Antoinette Moomau of the Presbyterian Mission in Soochau, China, who is now enjoying a furlough, gave a very interesting address on the work, at the Glendale Presbyterian church on the evening of March 1, and spent nearly a week in our town, making the most of the quiet retirement. She fairly revelled in the beauty of the mountain scenery, and delighted in slipping out to tramp up the hillsides and drink in the bracing air. She intends to come again as often as engagements permit, and is especially anxious to reach the "high places" which were daily in sight, and where so much of absorbing interest may be enjoyed as soon as satisfactory means of transportation can be had.

Mr. Benedict, our fellow townsman who bought the Rollins place on Third street, has shown us a copy of a monthly publication entitled "Grip Straps" devoted to the interests of the traveling salesmen in the jewelry business, to which fraternity Mr. Benedict belongs. We have seldom or never seen as well edited and bright a publication devoted to one line of industry. Every bit of it is good reading even for people not having an especial interest in it. There is an item highly commendotory of Mr. Benedict which we have no doubt is pefectlly true, for he impresses us as a gentlemen who can do things.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

The Standard Bearers of the M. E. church will meet on Wednesday, Mar. 14th at 3:45 p. m.

At the communion service last Sabbath there were 97 who partook of the sacrament of the Lord's supper. Eight were received into the church. "The Lord is doing great things for us whereof we are glad." Rev. J. B. Greene of Los Angeles preached a splendid sermon for us in the evening. "O that all men would praise the Lord for His goodness unto the children of men."

In our benevolences for the year all seem to desire a share in giving. Our offerings to the benevolences this year will amount to near $2000 and the expectation is that we will pay out on our church home.

The first payment on the subscription at dedication is now due.

The record made by the church is a good one. We thank most heartily the many friends who have aided in securing this splendid home. It is a splendid work shop in the interest of the people of the community.

In music our choir is doing grandly. In Sabbath school and Epworth League, much is being done to the advantage of the young especially.

Our prayer class meetings are seasons of real profit to those who attend them. The subject for Sabbath morning will be the "Blessing to those who endure temptation." In the evening at 7:30 Mrs. Lee, a returned missionary who has had a wonderful experience and who is a very able speaker will address the congregation. All who can should hear this excellent speaker and noble woman, whose life has been given for the good of others. A thank offering will be received in behalf of missions.

Meeting to Change Street Names, etc.

The committee appointed to confer with the Board of Trustees and assist them with suggestions as to street numbers and nomenclature, met with the trustees Friday evening. The matter was discussed at some length. It was understood that the result of the action of the joint committee would be only in the way of suggestion, and by no means conclusive.

It was unanimously determined that "A" street, being the geographical center of Glendale, should properly be the street from which the others should be numbered, and that the junction of Fourth and "A" streets should be the hub from which to run streets and numbers. It was recommended, therefore, that the name of "A" street should be changed to Center street. It was further recommended that proper names should replace letters in designating the streets now called after the letters of the alphabet. It was further suggested that the names given to these streets should be arranged in alphabetical order; thus, "B" street might be "Beacon" street, "C" street "California" street, and so on thro the alphabet.

Committee adjourned to meet next Friday evening, each member to bring in a list of street names.

THE BOARD OF TRADE PRIZES.

There were so many good pen and ink sketches sent in from our schools, and so generally excellent in design and detail that the committee had a hard time to decide, but their conclusion was finally unanimous. Every sketch was accompanied by a sealed envelope containing the name of the artist, so that the committee did not know to whom the prizes were awarded after they had made their decision. When the envelopes were then opened:

Prizes were awarded as follows:

First prize, $3.00, Alma Stone, of the High School.

Second prize, $2.00, J. F. Cook, of the High School.

Third prize, $1.00, Beatrice Williams of the Glendale Grammar School.

All of the sketches submitted except one from Burbank, were from the Glendale schools. Many of them were excellent, all were good. The following is a list of contributors not including the prize takers:

Dorothy Gould, Elizabeth Byrkit, Emily Ellis, of the Glendale Grammar School. Letha Kahl, Burbank Grammar School. J. F. Cook, Elsie Gilhousen, Gertrude Ward, Clyde H. Morrow, Dan McPeak of the Glendale High School.

The Weather

Over an inch of rain fell in Glendale Wednesday morning in about an hour. It had been raining gently all the previous night and the heavy downpour ran off rapidly, doing no damage in this vicinity, but causing much trouble for the railroads. The Southern Pacific tracks are covered with sand between Burbank and Fernando, and there are serious washouts in the Soledad Canyon on the same line.

The taffy-pulling social to have been given by the Woman's Relief Corps at G. A. R. hall this week, has been postponed, on account of the weather, until next Wednesday evening.

The teachers of the Tropico school held a meeting Thursday evening, at which it was decided to give an entertainment the latter part of this month for the purpose of purchasing a new flag for the school. The date will be announced later.

Mr. W. C. B. Richardson and sons took an automobile ride up the valley Thursday. They report the railroad in bad shape where it is crossed by the Tejunga wash. The sand accumulated and has covered the track to a depth of two feet, but a temporary track has been constructed around it.

High School Notes

Grace Todd is again out of school on account of whooping cough.

The rains Monday and Tuesday made the attendance record look rather checkered.

The girls' basket ball team will meet L. A. High Saturday, on the Los Angeles High School court.

There will be something doing soon; the freshmen are holding class meetings daily—and they do things.

Granville McClure has decided to drop his high school work the remainder of the year to allow his eyes to recuperate.

Several of the boys are practicing daily for the U. S. C. inter-scholastic track meet which is to be held the latter part of March.

John Smalley and Henry Lehman have donated some very interesting fossil and crystal forms to the physical geography department.

The basket ball game last Saturday on the home court in which Polyeechnic High scored a few extra points, was a fine exhibition of the sport. Polly had one distinct advantage in having a lengthy center maid, but Miss Cotteral kept her busy most of the time. The team work of the locals was up to their former high standard; the forwards, however, seemed somewhat hoodooed when the ball got up in the neighborhood of the basket, in persisting in falling on the outside at the fatal moment. The guards held down the score beautifully.

Something About Mexico

From Mr. George Byram, who recently returned from a visit to the southwest coast of Mexico, we gather a good many points of interest, as Mr. Byram is an intelligent observer.

His objective point when he left Glendale was Mapastepec, in the state of Chiapas, and in order to reach there he had to travel by a somewhat circuitous route, going by way of El Paso and the City of Mexico, thence to Cordoba, from which point the traveler gets a fine view of Mount Orizaba. From Cordoba there is a fall of 6000 feet in elevation within a distance of twenty miles. Mr. Byram did not tarry long in the City of Mexico, but remained long enough to discover the fact that it is a cooler place in winter than Los Angeles, tender plants requiring protection throughout the winter, and considerable snow falls there. This is owing to the high elevation (about 6000 feet) which more than compensates for the difference in latitude.

At Cordoba one realizes that he is in a tropical country, for the road runs through dense forests and a jungle of luxurious vegetation. One day's journey by rail takes the traveler from Cordoba to Santa Lucia, from which point he goes on the Tehuantepec National to San Geronimo, twenty-eight miles from Salina Cruz, the Pacific terminus of the great Mexican transcontinental railway that has just been completed. Then there is a ride of 210 miles on the Pan American railway to Mapastepec. This place is about sixteen miles from the coast.

The country is level, covered with a luxurious growth of grasses and other vegetation, with frequent stretches of timber. Some of the trees are very large, and nearly all are deciduous. Mahogany trees and Spanish cedar are quite abundant, as is also a variety resembling our Eastern black walnut, known locally as the juanacosta. The palo blanco is another variety, resembling bird's-eye maple; and dye woods are abundant. One variety of grass called the camelote is very rank, attaining a height of eight or ten feet; it is good feed for growing cattle, but they are put on the paral grass when it is desired to fatten them.

The ranch Mr. Byram stopped at is called "La Aurora" and comprises 5200 acres. It is devoted to the raising of cattle, sugar, rubber and tropical fruits, and belongs to a Los Angeles company which employs from 25 to 50 men. The wages paid is 37½ cents per day in gold, with house and wood furnished. It is a country of great possibilities in the way of development, and as the railroad has lately been built into its vicinity, the development will not be long delayed. Since Mr. Byram made the trip, it has become practicable to go by steamer from San Francisco to Salina Cruz, 210 miles distant.

The soil is of great fertility; corn and beans mature in ten weeks and require no cultivation; and yet those products were selling at six cents and a half per pound! Game is plentiful. There are wild turkeys in the timber and a bird of the grouse family called chachalaca, while there are great quantities of parrots and water fowl with brilliant plumage. Ducks and other water fowl and fish are abundant. Among the wild animals are the jaguar and the wild boar. The climate is not extremely warm. The natives are a friendly people, of agricultural habits, living generally in the towns in houses made of poles and palm leaves. Mr. Byram thinks it a great country, but just at present lacking in the comforts of home.

THE BRUCE PHOTOGRAPHIC TELESCOPE.

Before answering the question as to what use is made of this odd looking instrument, it may be well to tell why it is so named. Bruce, for Miss Catherine Bruce, whose money paid for it. Photographic, because, although it serves other important purposes, its chief work is to take photographs. It is not a long sliding tube through which one may look at the stars. It resembles an ordinary short field glass in shape, and in its proportion of length to diameter. Its diameter is ten inches, and the length probably three feet. Two small tubes of similar shape are set in the frame-work which supports it, and are used for different work from that of the principal glass.

This great camera is guarded against any possibility of shaking, and the lens is of the most perfect character; so that the work done is without flaw. Now in what field of photography is this elaborate and expensive apparatus employed?

Every person who does not positively look downward has often seen the milky way; and most people have noticed that it does not maintain the same appearance and direction all through the year. During that part of the year which is most favorable for it steady attention is given to such study by astronomers everywhere, with the best appliances at their command, each new development adding further zest to the spirit of inquiry and research.

Two or three generations ago the most powerful telescopes began to show some stars in the field; and as improvements were made in the instruments it became more and more evident that the faint brightness which our naked eyes discern is the light of countless millions of stars, so far away that we cannot imagine any measure of their distance.

Many of the most interesting problems in the science of astronomy are connected with the study of the milky way, and enthusiastic scientists go to their utmost in devising means for new discoveries. In couse of time it was found that the best results were obtained by first taking a photograph of a section of star-space largely magnified, this picture being then submitted to examination by the further enlargement of a powerful glass. This process is spoken of as "using the plates of the great photographic campaign," an employment beside which the work of ordinary photographers is only the little beginning. The point now reached in astronomic work gives to our Mt. Wilson the most extensive and complete outfit in the world for all lines of study, after years of observation and experiment as to the most favorable locality and the best appliances and methods.

More remains to be said at a later day.

H. N. H.

PUBLIC WORKS.

Until the rain came Contractor Mock was making good progress on the work on Fourth street westward from the boulevard. He has an up to date patent mixing machine which does very thorough work. The cement and sand are thoroughly mixed by a rotary screw arrangement, first in a dry state and then again after the addition of water, so that every particle of sand receives its coating of cement. The sidewalk has been laid in front of the high school and lumber yard and will be pushed along rapidly as soon as the weather is settled again. The trustees have published a notice of intention to grade, oil and sidewalk Fourth street east of Glendale avenue to A street, an improvement which, when made will add wonderfully to the attractiveness and value of property along that street.

The history of our insect pests in California, particularly those of the "scale" family, with the parasites that feed upon them and act as our protectors, is one of great interest. Years ago the cottony cushion scale infested every citrus tree in Southern California; the industry seemed doomed, when the Vedalia Cardinalis was brought in from Australia and saved our orange and lemon orchards from extermination. This was (and is) a little insect of the "Lady Bird" family, that feeds on the scale and then mysteriously disappears. Our horticultural commission preserves a few of them by taking infinite pains to prevent their extinction. Every now and then the cottony cushioned enemy appears in some orchard, a colony of lady birds are turned loose upon them, and that's all there is of it.

There has just been brought over from China some insects that are expected to extermninate the red and purple scale in our citrus groves. This insect belongs to the chalcid fly family, and it is hoped that its work will be effectual. All the friendly insects that we have imported have not proved a success, however. There was one brought over a few years ago to exterminate the black scale, which did not seem to do the work; that also was a fly, we believe. But nature interposes a helping hand every now and again to restrain the destructiveness of its own creations, and by means of certain variations of temperature, or in other ways that we do not understand, affords us relief. This has been the case with the black scale, which for long years has been the pest of the orchardist, but which during the past season seems to have almost disappeared. This is the insect that blackens the surface of leaves and fruit by the exudation of a honey dew which catches all the dust and dirt that is moving in the vicinity.

The purple scale has never invaded the Glendale orchards, but has been very bad in some sections between Los Angeles and the ocean. It is to be hoped that the pasasite just introduced will eradicate it.

Glendale Grocery Robbed

A burglar, or burglars, broke into the Glendale Grocery last night (Friday) and robbed the cash register of $24, besides taking a few cigars and possibly some other articles which have not yet been missed. Entrance was made at a rear window which is six feet or more from the ground, the glass being broken to gain entrance. The cash register was taken to the barn in the rear, where the drawer was broken open, the machine not being otherwise injured.

The store usually has a watchman on the premises, but owing to illness he had not been on duty for the past week, a fact evidently known to the burglar. Owing to the illness of Miss Cross, who had gone home early in the afternoon, there was more cash left in the register than is customary.

Mr. Taylor left the store about 9 p. m., and at what hour the robbery occurred is unknown, and no clue has been obtained as to the perpetrators.

The Verdugo Canyon Water Co. has let the contract for an extension of its main pipe line in Verdugo Canyon. The extension is to be of 14-inch vitrified pipe, will be about 600 feet in length, and will be of much benefit in the conservation and protection of the water controlled and distributed by this company.

GLENDALE SANITARIUM.

Last week every room in the sanitarium was filled with guests, and this week is not much behind last. It might naturally be supposed that the patrons of this institution are all invalids, but such is not the case. There are many guests, of course, who are afflicted in various ways and are trying the common-sense methods of healing which are here practiced. But many others are merely here for a period of rest; a good many of whom would probably patronize a hotel here, if we had one with the comforts and conveniences of life which the sanitarium affords. There are a number of guests with overworked brains and misused stomachs, who find the treatment and regime in vogue here particularly adapted to their cases. The beautiful, well kept grounds are an attractive feature of the place, as there are sunny stretches, shady nooks and other features required for the "open air" treatment, which to some extent prevails here. The guests registered at the sanitarium are as follows:

Andrew Eden, St. Louis.
A. J. Johnstone and wife, Santa Monica.
J. A. Garmer and wife, Des Moines.
Frederick McCandless and wife, Tacoma, Wash.
Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ramsey, Ellensburg, Wash.
W. H. Covall, Fernando, Cal.
H. M. Porter and wife, Denver, Col.
Chas. E. Stewart, Los Angeles.
S. A. Burrows, Los Angeles.
Mrs. C. H. Dewey, Minneapolis.
Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Brenner, Chicago.
Geo. W. Menter, Santa Ana.
C. E. French, Santa Ana.
Mrs. M. T. Garver, Bryan, Ohio.
C. J. Wilson, Los Angeles.
Mrs. Eva B. Lewis, Atlanta, Ga.
Dr. Elizabeth Follanbee, Los Angeles.
Miss Sophia Schultze, Hollywood.
M. O'Malley, Los Angeles.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Ramsey, Ellensburg, Wash.

Mr. Francis Eaton, who has lived for a portion of the last fifteen years in this vicinity, died Monday night at the Soldiers Home where he was buried Wednesday morning. Mr. Eaton had an enviable record as a soldier of our civil war. He has been in the hospital ward at the Soldiers' Home for several weeks past.
